

Steve Brown – Chief Information Officer

Steve Brown serves as Chief Information Officer at College of Eastern Idaho (CEI), bringing more than 30 years of experience in information technology leadership across industries including manufacturing, transportation, aerospace, healthcare, and financial services.

In his role, Steve provides strategic direction for the college's technology infrastructure and systems, supporting innovation, operational efficiency, and student success. He has led IT organizations ranging from 250 to 1,200 employees and overseen transformational initiatives spanning from $100,000 to more than $500 million.

Throughout his career, Steve has been instrumental in implementing global enterprise strategies, advancing operational best practices, and delivering technology solutions that support organizational growth. He is known for his hands-on leadership style and commitment to building high-performing, collaborative teams.